Newsletter 52 – July 2020

A report into the cross island seaweed project has yet to be completed.

The purchase of the stone skimming quarry is being progressed.

A Housing Feasibility Study is in the early development stage and community consultation will take place as soon as the situation with the pandemic allows.

Sadly this year's World Stone Skimming Championships will not take place due to covid-19.

The re-opening of the Museum & Hall will be reviewed at the end of July.

The channel has been dredged by Argyll and Bute Council, and the gabion baskets which have collapsed are being repaired.

A big thanks to the islands knitting and sewing group who have been making key worker dolls and face masks.

Sadly Jenny Smith, resident of Easdale island, passed away on the first of May.
